

Bone Health Check Campaign

Education, training and employment opportunity in bone health.

The largest bone scanning program in the world is coming to Australia in 2007.

New South Wales: Friday 23rd – Sunday 24th February 2007.

Nutrition students from University of Sydney are invited to participate in the NSW section.

Students who are accepted into the program will receive significant, and beneficial, training prior to working on the Bone Scan Team. This will include:

- A free seminar run by the company's Nutrition Research Manager to be held for all participating students prior to the commencement of the program, educating them on bone health, early detection, nutrition and prevention.
- Full training on the GE Achilles Insight Bone Scan ultrasonometer machines.

When training is complete students will be able to:

- ✓ Conduct bone scan health checks.
- ✓ Clearly and concisely analyse each result
- ✓ Provide information on bone health and recommendations to help keep bones strong.
- ✓ Discuss features and benefits of a highlighted product to help bone strength.

Successful applicants will be paid $15 per hour during the three day activity.

To become involved in this community health program, please send a brief CV, recent photo and expression of interest by Friday 12th January, 2007 to:
